

Olivier Gas

Managing Directorl, Gas Bijoux - 2010

« The Maison Gas is a Marseille saga. In our workshop the sixty craftsmen make their creations under the Mediterranean sun. And I am particularly pleased with the installation of the MMM in its new premises in the Joliette district. The space is part of a very dynamic and positive urban fabric. This is the place to be. The economic future of the city will be decided in this area.

Furthermore, the design of the space, its luminosity, the classrooms which open onto a common area, all contribute to reinforcing exchanges between professionals and students. We need this sort of sharing. Getting to know the students, giving them advice and the chance to complete their work experience placements in our companies, is very important for the future. »
